"HIS EXCELLENCY."

ACT I.

SCENE.—Market place of Elsinore. The townspeople (led by MATS MUNCK, the Syndic) are assembled to congratulate ERLING SYKKE on the completion of the statue of the Prince Regent of Denmark, which occupies the centre of the stage. Colours flying, bells ringing, cannon firing, and general symptoms of rejoicing.

OPENING CHORUS.

Set the merry bunting flying,
Fire the cannon—ring the bells—
Our great townsman glorifying,
Who with sculptor-skill undying,
All competitors excels.
He, with his artistic spells,
So the stubborn marble quells,
That, to all intents elastic,
It assumes, in manner plastic,
Shapes heroic—shapes fantastic,
As his mighty will compels !

MATS MUNCK. Chosen from his fellow creatures
By our King—'twas wisely done—
To perpetuate the features
Of the Regent Prince, his son—
Then created, by a penmark,
At our gracious King's decree,
Sculptor to the Court of Denmark
And the Royal Familee !

ALL. Sculptor to the Court of Denmark
And the Royal Familee !
Leisure take—festina lentè—
You have time before you, plenty,
When at only two-and-twenty,
(Nemine dissente)
You're created with a penmark,
Sculptor to the Court of Denmark—
Sculptor to the Court of Denmark,
And the Royal Familee !

RECIT.—ERLING.

Most worthy Syndic and all friends assembled—
 I thank you for your kind and cordial greeting—
 But when you sing my praises, oh remember
 How many worthier brethren pine and perish
 For lack of that sunbeam of Royal favour,
 Which, by sheer April chance, has fallen on me
 And warmed my budding powers into blossom !

CHORUS.

No, no !

No April chance is here—

Thine art hath no compeer—

It triumphs all completely :

And, sooth to say, 'twere well

If Royal sunbeams always fell

So wisely, so discreetly !

So scatter flowers at his feet,

Sing him songs of jubilation,

And the king of sculptors greet

With a rosy coronation !

(Crowning him with flowers.)

MEN.

Raise him on our brawny shoulders,

Cynosure of all beholders. (They do so.)

WOMEN.

Hail him, scholar—hail him, gownsman—

As your worthiest fellow townsman !

ALL.

Hail him, dunce and ignoramus,

For his fame will make you famous—

Hail him great, and hail him small,

Hail him one, and hail him all !

*(They carry him round stage, then place him on his feet ;
 then exeunt all except ERLING and CHRISTINA, who is then discovered seated at the foot of the pedestal.)*

RECIT.—ERLING.

My pretty one, why silent and alone ?

Why sit you thus in pensive meditation ?

Has melancholy marked you for her own,

Or sad disaster checked your heart's elation ?

I pray reply !

RECIT.—CHRISTINA.

Good sir, although I sit apart all day,

I am no prey to grief or sad disaster,

Truth is, I cannot tear myself away

From this fair form—thy work, oh, mighty master !

I'll tell you why !

BALLAD.—CHRISTINA.

I see with a silent awe,
 In this faultless form allied
 The exquisite grace
 Of a royal race,
 And the glory of knightly pride :
 No blemish, or fault, or flaw,
 But perfect in all is he,
 I've learnt, in fine,
 What a god divine
 A chivalrous knight may be.
 As gentle as lover's lay,
 Or the dawn of a bright May-day,
 Yet cast in the knightly mould
 Of the glorious days of old—
 My eyes are opened ; at last I see
 What he who would win my heart must be

Why look at the men we've known—
 Their mouths will open and close—
 They've ears likewise,
 And a couple of eyes,
 And the usual nubby nose ;
 Each has a head of his own,
 They've bodies, and legs, and feet—
 I'm bound to admit
 That in every whit
 The catalogue's quite complete :—
 But where is the godlike grace
 That lights that marvellous face ?
 Where is the brow serene ?
 Where is the lordly mien ?
 Ah, dullards and dolts are all I've known,
 Compared with that marvellous, matchless stone !
[Exit CHRISTINA.]

ERL. That's a typical instance of feminine perversity—doesn't fall in love with me, which would be rational enough, but with the senseless inanimate work of my hands ! My dear fellow (addressing statue), I little thought, when I cut you out, that in course of time you'd return the compliment !

Enter TORTENSSEN.

TOR. Erling, congratulate me ! I've just received my patent of appointment as Personal Physician to his Majesty King Christian. I have let my house, sold my practice, and I start for Copenhagen this day week !

ERL. My dear friend, I'm overjoyed. I'm in daily expectation of a Royal command to take up my office as Sculptor Extraordinary to the Royal Family—and we'll travel together. Of course you've heard that I've been promised a Countship?

TOR. And I am to be created a Baron!

ERL. You don't say so! To think that we two, who have toiled in obscurity from boyhood for a bare subsistence, should both be raised at the same moment to such social and professional distinction!

TOR. It seems incredible. It can't be—but, no—that's out of the question.

ERL. What can't be?

TOR. It can't be one of Governor Griffenfeld's practical jokes?

ERL. My dear fellow, don't suggest such a thing. It would be too cruel—why, it would be our ruin!

TOR. But he is cruel. When a scheme for a practical joke enters his head he sticks at nothing in its accomplishment. Why, he has caused the very soldiers of the garrison—war-worn veterans as they are—to be drilled as ballet-girls, and to perform all their evolutions, to dance steps, simply in order to make them ridiculous in the eyes of the girls they're engaged to!

ERL. He's a malicious devil enough, but he would hardly venture to play pranks in the name of his Sovereign. Besides, there's the statue—a commission from the King.

TOR. True. By the way, I suppose it is a commission from the King? That's not one of his Excellency's practical jokes?

ERL. Nonsense! Now, does that look like a practical joke? Why, I'm to get ten thousand rix-dollars for it! Now, as you know, I love his daughter Nanna devotedly, and she has hitherto treated me with contempt, because, as she says, I'm a mere tuppenny-halfpenny stone-cutter. Of course, that's only her humorous way of putting it.

TOR. And I adore Thora, who has always treated my pretensions with derision, because, as she says, I'm only a pitiful pill-roller. That's her epigrammatic way of expressing it.

ERL. But now that our positions are so immensely improved, surely we might renew our proposals with every prospect of success!

TOR. The very idea that occurred to me! My incomparable Thora—

ERL. Your what!

TOR. My incomparable Thora—

ERL. Ah—exactly! But—don't think me inquisitive—why don't you think Nanna incomparable?

TOR. Why, my dear fellow, if for no other reason, because you do.

ERL. What an obstinate dog you must be to refuse to consider her the divinest creature in the world, because I do ! And you call yourself my friend !

TOR. Well, but really—

ERL. It's most unjust to the poor girl.

TOR. But if I loved Nanna you'd call me out.

ERL. What, you—call you out ? Call out my old friend because he was of the same way of thinking as myself ?—no !

TOR. But suppose I were successful ?

ERL. Ah, but you wouldn't be. That is a contingency that we need not consider. Now do give up Thora and love Nanna—do, to oblige me.

TOR. Do you want everybody to love Nanna ?

ERL. Of course I do. What I want is that all the world shall go mad over her, and that I shall be triumphant. Surely that's an intelligible position ! Now mark :—

SONG.—ERLING.

When I bestow my bosom's store,
 No room for doubt
 Must I descry :
 All men must love whom I adore,
 Or we fall out,
 All men and I.
 Though poor their chance and slight their hope
 Who with my suit presume to cope,
 Yet must all men to gain her try,
 Or we fall out, all men and I.

When I am wed I'll hold them cheap
 Who sing and shout
 With joyous cry.
 At such a time all men must weep,
 Or we fall out,
 All men and I.
 As all men must my rivals be,
 When Nanna gives her hand to me
 All men must broken-hearted, sigh,
 Or we fall out, all men and I.

If I my lady vainly woo,
 And, her without,
 I pine and die,
 Mankind at large must perish, too,
 Or we fall out,
 Mankind and I.
 Who lives when I find life too long
 Would seem to say that I am wrong.
 When I expire all men must die,
 Or we fall out, all men and I !

Enter NANNA and THORA.

NANNA (pretending not to see ERLING and TORTENSSEN). And they're so clever, said I—such talented young men—so extraordinarily good-looking, too—and so kind to their poor old mothers !

THORA. And now that they're going to be raised to the peerage they'll have nothing to say to a couple of middle-class nobodies like us ! (Suddenly.) Oh my goodness, here they are ! Oh what have I said !

DUET.—NANNA and THORA.

THORA. Oh my goodness, here's the nobility !

NANNA. Gracious me, how very embarrassing !

THORA. We're such every day gentility—
 Bless me, how exceedingly harassing !

NANNA. Pray, you pardon us !
 Don't be hard on us !

THORA. Most confusing your regard on us !

BOTH. Never was I so dazed, I think !
 Into the ground I'd like to sink !

THORA. Can't you see they're high society ?

NANNA. Don't they sneer like people of quality ?

THORA. If we seem to lack propriety,
 Pray forgive our silly frivolity !

NANNA. Treat with charity
 Our vulgarity—

THORA. 'Twixt us there's so much disparity

BOTH. Very superior persons, you !
 Gracious goodness, what shall we do ?

ERL. Then, Miss Nanna, you've heard of our good fortune?

NANNA. Indeed I have! I'm quite uncomfortable in the presence of such grandees!

THORA. We're so unaccustomed to aristocratic circles that really we hardly know how we ought to address you!

TOR. Oh, we haven't been ennobled yet.

THORA. Haven't you really? Come, that makes conversation easier. Still, a Personal Physician to the King—

NANNA. And a Sculptor Extraordinary to the Royal Family.

THORA. And we're only the daughters of an obscure provincial Governor! Oh, really I think we'd better go. It's so much wiser to keep to one's own rank in life!

ERL. Miss Nanna, pray be reassured; we have no desire to presume on our promotion. Indeed, you overrate our importance.

THORA. It seems impossible. I really think we'd better go.

TOR. No, don't do that. Be quite unembarrassed—entirely at your ease, and try to imagine that we are nobody in particular.

THORA. Oh, but that demands a tremendous effort of the imagination. Still, I'll try (tries).

TOR. Have you got it?

THORA. Not yet, but I won't be beaten. I'll try again (tries again).

NANNA (trying). Oh, I shall never do it? Did you say nobody in particular?

ERL. Just a couple of mere everyday, commonplace professional men.

NANNA. Well, it can't be done—that's all! It's ridiculous to expect it.

ERL. (aside). Now's my time, I think! (Aloud.) Miss Nanna, as you know, we have both loved you and your sister—and we've often told you so, and you snubbed us, and we deserved it. But now that we are well off, and Court personages, and going to be ennobled, we venture to—to—

NANNA. Not to offer us your hands. No—don't say that—don't turn our heads and give us ideas above our station!

THORA. Oh! (crying out). Oh, I've got an idea above my station! Oh, it's all the way up there, ever so high! (pointing up.)

THE OTHERS (looking up). Where? Where?

THORA. Bal-loon! Ha! ha! ha!

ERL. I do believe you are laughing at us!

THORA (to NANNA). Oh, aren't the nobility shrewd?

NANNA. And isn't the aristocracy quick at grasping a situation?

THORA. But come, we'll be serious. Are you really in earnest when you make us this intoxicating offer?

TOR. Absolutely.

ERL. More serious than we ever were in our lives.

NANNA. Very good, that's business, and I'll tell you what we'll do.

QUARTET.—NANNA, THORA, ERLING, and TORTENSSEN.

NANNA. If all is as you say—
If honour and wealth and glory
Of every sort
Are yours—

THORA. In short,
If you're not telling a story—

NANNA. If you are a Count some day—

THORA. A Baron if you're created—
And all turns out
Beyond all doubt
Precisely as you've stated—

NANNA. Court sculptor and a peer,
With eversomuch a year,

THORA. Physician to the King
With honours and everything,
Precisely as you've stated—

NANNA and THORA. Then I will be your bride—

ERL. and TOR. Oh joy!

NANNA and THORA. And I your bride will be!

ERL. and TOR. Then let us make merry,
It's evident, very,
That day we soon shall see—

NANNA and THORA. When you are qualified—

ERL. and TOR. Oh joy!

NANNA and THORA. To marry you we agree!

ERL. and TOR. Oh happy decision!
Oh vision Elysian!
That day we soon shall see!

ERL. Compared with our own
All others are inkiness!

TOR. They are, alone,
Two visions of pinkiness!

Enter Chorus of Girls, led by ELSA.

CHORUS.

Here are the warriors all ablaze
 Sabre and epaulettes, ha ! ha !
 All of them ordered to spend their days
 Practising minuets, ha ! ha !
 Never was seen such tawdry trickery,
 Soldiers, tough as oak or hickory,
 Turned to votaries of Terpsichore,
 Mincing marionettes, ha ! ha !
 Never was seen in soldier's training
 Spectacle half so entertaining !
 Never was seen such tuppenny trickery—
 Soldiers, tough as the oak or hickory,
 Turned to votaries of Terpsichore,
 Mincing marionettes, ha ! ha !

Enter Soldiers dancing, led by HAROLD and followed by BLANCA.

HAR. Though I'm a soldier, all pugnacity,
 Into your presence I'm made to come
 In the contemptible capacity
 Of a confounded teetotum !

CHORUS OF } In the contemptible capacity
 SOLDIERS. } Of a confounded teetotum !

HAR. Although the Governor's jokes are numerous,
 This is a joke we fail to see—
 If this is the Governor's fun so humorous,
 Bother the Governor's fun, say we !

CHORUS OF } If this is the Governor's fun so humorous, SOLDIERS. } Bother the Governor's fun, say we !

HAR. Oh you may laugh at our dancing-schoolery—
 It's all very well, it amuses you,
 But how would you like this dashed tomfoolery
 Every day from ten to two ?

CHORUS OF } How would you like this dashed tomfoolery
 SOLDIERS. } Every day from ten to two ?

HAR. (to Soldiers). You can halt for a moment. The Governor's stopped to make a butter slide on the Syndic's doorstep. (Soldiers halt—to BLANCA.) It's a little unkind to laugh at us, Blanca, for you know we can't help it—from 10 to 2.

BLAN. It's a little unkind to complain of our laughing at you, for you know we can't help it—from 10 to 2.

ELSA. We can none of us help it—you're all so ridiculous !

HAR. I think my betrothed wife might sympathize with the absurdity of my position. I think all our betrothed wives might sympathize with the absurdity of all our positions.

ELSA. We sympathize with you as hard as we can, after 2. We can't do it before 2, because we're laughing all the time.

BLAN. From 2 to 10 you're men, and we're engaged to you. From 10 to 2 you're hoppedegigs, and it's off.

ELSA. That exactly describes it.

HAR. Yes, but at that rate we shall never get any forrarder. Besides, who knows what may happen from 10 to 2. You might get engaged to somebody else—to the Sergeant Major, for instance, he's always fooling around you.

BLAN. Well, of course we don't want to waste our mornings; but even if I were engaged to him from 10 to 2, I should always be true to you from 2 to 10.

HAR. It's not enough. It's incomplete.

ELSA. Take care, the Governor's coming.

HAR. Oh, confound it—off we go again!

(Soldiers resume dancing.)

Enter GOVERNOR GRIFFENFELD. He has a pound of butter in his hand.

GRIF. (to Soldiers). Ah, my fine fellows, still at it? Got your second wind? That's right—capital exercise! Nothing like it. Here, you can eat this—I've done with it. (Giving butter to HAROLD.) The Syndic went down like a shot!

HAR. (dancing). I beg your Excellency's pardon, but—may we halt for a moment? We've danced for nearly three miles up-hill, and it's a hot day, and we're feeling a little faint.

GRIF. Always craving for some unreasonable indulgence! Selfish dogs, all of you! Well, you may halt for five minutes.

HAR. Thank you very much. (To Soldiers). Selfish dogs—Halt! (they halt.)

GRIF. Anything else?

HAR. Well, I have a request to make. The fact is, the troops do feel the humiliation of being drilled like ballet-girls.

GRIF. Bless my heart, you surprise me! Don't they like ballet-girls?

HAR. Oh, they're very fond of ballet-girls, but they don't want to be ballet-girls, because when you are a ballet-girl, you don't seem to care so much about ballet-girls as you do when—when you're something quite different.

GRIF. But don't your men see how much amusement they create? Can't they see that all the girls are laughing at them? Have they no sense of humour?

HAR. Oh, they've a distinct sense of humour; but to enjoy this sort of thing completely you want to see it from a distance. You see it from a distance, and it ought to be devilish funny; but we are close to it—in fact, we are it—and when you are it, you don't seem to care so much about it, as you do when—when you are something quite different. The fact is, the point of a joke is like the point of a needle—hold the needle sideways and it's plain enough, but when it is directed straight at you—well, it's not always very easy to see the point of it.

GRIF. Nonsense! I can see a joke plain enough even when I'm its victim. Take my unfortunate love affair—

HAR. Ah, ridiculous business that! (Soldiers laugh.)

GRIF. No comments, sir!

HAR. (to Soldiers). No comments, gentlemen!

GRIF. Take my unfortunate love affair. The late Governor, when I was only his deputy, was about to be married to an elderly lady of a singularly explosive disposition. They simply doted on each other. Now when you see two old donkeys simply doting on each other, your course is obvious—you set to work—

HAR. To wheedle the old lady—

GRIF. Away from the old gentleman.

HAR. Ha! ha! you little rogue! (HAROLD digs GRIFFENFELD in the ribs.)

GRIF. Don't do that, sir!

HAR. (to Soldiers). Don't do that, gentlemen!

GRIF. Well, after some respectful attentions, she accepted me in this letter (producing a letter) in which she stipulated that the matter should be kept a profound secret until an excuse could be found for sending the old gentleman about his business. But, as luck would have it, the Governor died suddenly and I succeeded him, before I had time to explain that it was only my fun—

HAR. and SOLDIERS. Ha! ha! (Suddenly serious)—I beg your pardon—I don't know what they're laughing at.

GRIF. And so there I was—regularly trapped into a ridiculous engagement, which I can't, for the life of me, see my way out of. The situation is most unpleasant—most unpleasant. But do you suppose I don't see the fun of it? Why, I can't think of it without going into convulsions! Ha! ha!

HAR. and SOLDIERS. Ha! ha! ha!

GRIF. She's sixty!

HAR. and SOLDIERS. Ha ! ha ! ha !

GRIF. Wears a wig !

HAR. and SOLDIERS. Ha ! ha ! ha !

GRIF. Don't overdo it, sir !

HAR. Don't overdo it, gentlemen !

GRIF. That's quite enough. It's a very good joke, but not as good a joke as all that. Impudent puppies !—be off with you.

HAR. (to Soldiers). Impudent puppies !—inwards turn—Chassez ! (HAROLD and Soldiers dance off, followed by girls laughing and chattering.)

GRIF. Upon my word, there's no such thing as gratitude I do all I can to make my soldiers amusing—I place them in all kinds of ridiculous situations—I make them a source of entertainment to a whole township of attractive girls, and instead of being pleased and grateful for the attention, they growl like so many sore-eared bears !

Enter DAME CORTLANDT skittishly, with a folded note in her hand.

DAME. Why, here's my little man after all ! I've been looking for him everywhere. Why does he hide himself away from his loving Hecla ?

GRIF. Eh ? Oh it's you, is it ? (She puts her arm round his neck.) Don't do that—you rumple me. What have you got there ?

DAME. It's a note, you jealous boy ! Not for you—oh dear no ! It's a pretty little pink and white billet doux addressed to a pretty little pink and white gentleman, begging him to make an appointment to meet a pretty little pink and white lady, all alone ! That's me ! Now what do you think of that ?

GRIF. Well, if you ask me, I don't think he'll come.

DAME. Oh yes, he will ! He'll come fast enough. But there—it's cruel to keep my pet in suspense—

GRIF. God bless me, you don't suppose I care whom you meet !

DAME (suddenly furious). What's that ? Say that again ! Once more ! Come, out with it !

GRIF. (alarmed). I say that I've such perfect confidence in your moral character that I don't trouble myself to inquire whom you make appointments with.

DAME (relieved). Oh, was that all ? But you shouldn't upset me, George. Within this fragile body two tremendous Powers are in perpetual antagonism—a Diabolical Temper and an Iron Will. At first it didn't seem to be any affair of mine, and I determined to let them fight it out among themselves ; but this internal conflict of irresistible forces is very wearing, George, and I begin to wish they'd settle it one way or the other.

GRIF. Oh, what's the odds!

DAME (temper rising). About seven to two on the Temper just now, George. (Struggling to repress it.) No, the Will triumphs! (Playfully.) Now, shall I tell my little man who it is? (placing her arm round his neck).

GRIF. Oh, bother! Don't go on like that! You're too old!

DAME (suddenly furious). Eh? What was that? Too old! I'm too old! Oh, hold me down—hold me down! Bottle me up, and tie down the cork, or I shall go mad! mad! mad!

GRIF. Don't go on like that—it's so jumpy!

DAME (struggling with herself). You—you said I was too old!

GRIF. Well, I'm too old. You're not, but I am. Can't you take a joke? Can't anybody take a joke?

DAME. You were not in earnest?

GRIF. Earnest! Am I ever in earnest?

DAME (with an effort). All right, dear—don't be afraid—it's down again! Well, then, this is a letter requesting Master Mats Munck, the Syndic, to take my instructions for drawing up the settlements with a view to my forthcoming marriage. But I sha'n't tell you how I'm going to deal with my property. That will be a little surprise for you during the honeymoon.

GRIF. (aside). A letter to the Syndic? The very thing! It may help me to carry out my plot for compromising her with him! (Aloud.) Give it to me. I shall see him presently, and I'll hand it to him.

DAME. To be sure I will. (Giving it to him.) And now about the date.

GRIF. What date?

DAME. Why, the date of our marriage, you ardent creature!

GRIF. Oh, yes!—come and sit down, and we'll talk it over. (She sits at his feet). There—like that. Cosy, isn't it?

DAME (shyly). Oh, George!

GRIF. Now suppose—I only say suppose, you know—

DAME. Yes—like a fairy tale.

GRIF. Exactly—like a fairy tale. Now suppose that one fine morning you discovered that all this lovemaking of mine was only one of my practical jokes! Ha! ha! ha!

DAME. Ha! ha! ha! (working herself up into a rage). Stop a bit! stop a bit! They're fighting it out!

GRIF. (earnestly). Two to one on the Will ! Two to one on the Will !

DAME. Wins easy, George ! It's all right again. Go on, dear.

GRIF. No, but really now, what would you say if you found out, quite unexpectedly, that I wasn't in earnest, and that I only proposed to you because—because somebody bet me I wouldn't ?

DAME (working herself up). Bet you you wouldn't !—bet you you wouldn't ! What would I do—what would I do—what would I do ?

GRIF. Now don't go on like that ! It's most unpleasant. I don't think you know how creepy you are when you do that. Oh, lord, she's off again !

DUET.—GOVERNOR and DAME CORTLANDT.

DAME. Now what would I do if you proved untrue, and the suit you pressed were an idle jest, and the conjugal yoke a brainless joke, and if marry your darling you couldn't ?

GRIF. Yes, what would you do if I proved untrue,
And if marry my darling I couldn't ?

DAME. What would I say if you owned some day that, a wager to win, you had taken me in, and the fact disclosed that you just proposed because somebody bet you you wouldn't ?

GRIF. If I owned some day that I sung that lay,
Because somebody bet me I wouldn't ?

DAME. Why, the trembling rock from an earthquake's shock, and the ocean's roar on the rock-bound shore, and the hell-babe's scream were a peaceful dream, to the terrible broth of my brewing ;

The tiger's gnash, and the cut-throat's gash, and the foeman's clash, and the thunder-crash of eternal smash were unmeaning trash, compared with my hullabalooing !

ENSEMBLE.

GOVERNOR (aside).

DAME.

It might, perhaps, be rather rash
The truth upon her mind to flash
If an earthquake's shock were idle trash

Compared with her hullaballooming !

Take care, you'll find it rather rash
My matrimonial hopes to dash,
For an earthquake's shock were idle trash

Compared with my hulla-
ballooming !

DAME. Like grey screech-owl (that hideous fowl) in a midnight cowl I'd slink and prow! till a horrible howl and a tiger's growl had told the world I'd found you!

With object fell and a yelp and yell, on Vengeance' wing at my foe I'd spring, and face to face in a close embrace I'd wind my arms around you!

Your heart I'd tear from it's loathsome lair—I'd pluck out your eyes, and your tongue likewise—and limb from limb, with a growling grim, I'd rend him who pooh poohs me!

(Recovering herself.) Excuse me, please—when people tease, by slow degrees I kick up a breeze which you can't appease—it's quite a disease—I'll go and lie down—excuse me!

[Exit DAME CORTLANDT.]

GRIF. This is getting a little too hot to be pleasant. But this letter to the Syndic is simply providential. It's exactly what I wanted to make my innocent little plot complete (tears it up). Now where are those two girls of mine? They ought to be back by this time. (Enter NANNA and THORA.) Oh, here you are! Well, have you seen the Syndic?

NANNA. Yes, and we've carried out all your instructions.

GRIF. Good girls.

NANNA. We told him that we had the best possible reason to know that the wealthy old lady was particularly well disposed towards him, and that a declaration from him would receive polite and immediate attention.

THORA. So the silly old gentleman went off his head with joy—did extraordinary things with the office-stool, and at once wrote his declaration, and gave to us to deliver (producing it). Here it is.

GRIF. Thank you (giving her the letter which he formerly received from DAME CORTLANDT). The old lady's reply.

THORA. What, already?

NANNA. Wonderful invention, steam!

GRIF. Hush! (Aside to them.) It's the very letter in which she accepted me under seal of secrecy, when I was only Deputy Governor!

NANNA. Oh, you sly old papa!

GRIF. Ha! ha! ha! It will do for him just as well as it did for me. And it will make him so happy!

TRIO.—GRIFFENFELD, NANNA, and THORA.

- ALL. Oh what a fund of joy jocund lies hid in harmless hoaxes !
 What keen enjoyment springs
 From cheap and simple things !
 What deep delight from sources trite inventive humour coaxes,
 That pain and trouble brew
 For every one but you !
- GRIF. Gunpowder placed inside its waist improves a mild Havanah,
 Its unexpected flash
 Burns eyebrows and moustache.
- NANNA. When people dine no kind of wine beats ipecacuanha,
 But common sense suggests
 You keep it for your guests—
- THORA. Then naught annoys the organ boys like throwing red-hot coppers,
- NANNA. And much amusement bides
 In common butter-slides :
- GRIF. And stringy snares across the stairs cause unexpected croppers.
- THORA. Coal scuttles, recollect,
 Produce the same effect.
- GRIF. A man possessed
 Of common sense
 Need not invest
 At great expense—
- NANNA. It does not call
 For pocket deep,
- THORA. These jokes are all
 Extremely cheap.
- ALL. If you commence with eighteenpence—it's all you'll have to pay ;
 You may command a pleasant and a most instructive day.
- GRIF. A good spring gun breeds endless fun, and makes men jump like rockets—
- THORA. And turnip-heads on posts
 Make very decent ghosts.
- GRIF. Then hornets sting like anything, when placed in waistcoat pockets—
- NANNA. Burnt cork and walnut juice
 Are not without their use.

- GRIF. No fun compares with easy chairs whose seats are stuffed with needles—
- THORA. Live shrimps their patience tax
When put down people's backs—
- GRIF. Surprising, too, what one can do with a pint of fat black-beedles—
- NANNA. And treacle on a chair
Will make a Quaker swear !
- THORA. Then sharp tin tacks
And pocket squirts—
- GRIF. And cobbler's wax
For ladies' skirts—
- NANNA. And slimy slugs
On bedroom floors—
- GRIF. And water jugs
On open doors—
- ALL. Prepared with these cheap properties, amusing tricks to play,
Upon a friend a man may spend a most delightful day !
[Exeunt.]

Enter two Officers, who look cautiously round.

1ST OFF. Is the coast clear ?

2ND OFF. Quite—there's no one in sight.

(First Officer beckons off. Enter the REGENT dressed picturesquely as a tattered vagabond. Both Officers bow deferentially.)

REG. Who were those who left as you arrived ?

1ST OFF. The Governor Griffenfeld, your Royal Highness, and his two daughters.

REG. The fellow whose disgraceful practical jokes are the subject of such general complaint ?

2ND OFF. The same, sir.

REG. Well, the expostulations of the townspeople have reached us in shoals, and we are resolved to judge for ourselves as to their truth or falsehood. For the purpose of our present disguise, we are Nils Egilsson—a strolling player—a vagabond—and as such you may describe me if any question as to my identity should arise. You can leave me now, but hold yourselves in readiness in case of emergency.

1ST OFF. As your Royal Highness pleases. (Officers bow and exeunt.)

REG. Whom have we here? (looking at statue.) Oho ! my princely self, eh ? Upon my word, fairly good for a provincial town.

In truth, a very public-spirited thing to have done. Governor Griffenfeld must have inspired this—upon my word, my heart softens towards the little scoundrel. But no—on second thoughts, he would have commissioned a caricature. (Enter CHRISTINA with her guitar.) Who is this? A dainty maiden indeed!

CHRIS. (not seeing him). It is a strange fascination that draws me hither! I have yet three principal streets, two squares, and the Castle Green to sing to—and they are all sure pay. —(Puts down her guitar.) Then how comes it that I find myself, every half hour, instinctively drifting towards the Market-place. It is not market day, and there's nobody here except—(looking at statue) and if I sing to him he does not hear me, and if I talk to him I must needs talk for two. As thus: Good morrow, my lord. "Ah, Christina—hast thou done well to-day?" But indifferent well, my lord Prince, for I have taken naught and given all! "That were idly done, Christina. What hast thou given, and to whom?" My heart, my lord Prince, and to your Highness, for, look you, I love you passing well—even I, who never loved a living man! "Somewhat unmaidenly, this avowal—is it not, Christina?" It may seem so, my lord. "Thou shouldst have waited until I gave some sign." I might have waited long, my lord, for your Highness is strangely reticent; and I might have peaked, pined, dwindled, drooped, and died in the waiting. "That were pitiful indeed, Christina." I thank your lordship. Will you hear a poor ballad, my lord? "If it be fairly sung, Christina, and not too long." It is not long, my lord, and I will sing it with all my poor skill, so it shall please you. "Well, tune up, Christina—but I have no small change." I thank your Highness; I sing to you, not for your money, but for your love. The song runneth thus:—(sees REGENT, who comes forward, offering her the guitar) Oh, sir!

CHRIS. Ah! (looks at statue, then at REGENT, and shows signs of terror.)

REG. Why, what is amiss with thee?

CHRIS. Sir, I am frightened! I thought at first—but I am a silly fool! I ask your pardon; but—you are so strangely like the Regent's statue, that, for the moment, I—oh, who are you?

REG. I am Nils Egilsson—a strolling player—a flotsam and jetsam on the world's tide—tossed hither and thither as the wild waves will; but, come good, come ill, always at the service of all pretty maids who need my offices.

CHRIS. Then—you are not a prince?

REG. Not a prince? Oh, but I am a prince—very often! Every prince in turn from Nebuchadnezzar down to Louis the Sixteenth, when an engagement offers. A trifle out of repair just now, but even your theatrical princes have their vicissitudes, and Elsinore is not stage-struck. But times may mend, and who knows but that I shall yet play Hamlet on his native battlements?

CHRIS. Still, a real Prince—

REG. Is not to be envied, take my word for it. Why, the very fact that he can't show his nose out of doors without an everlasting accompaniment of National Anthem is enough to make him turn Revolutionist, and cry aloud for his own downfall!

SONG.—REGENT.

A King, though he's pestered with cares,
 Though, no doubt, he can often trepan them;
 But one comes in a shape he can never escape—
 The implacable National Anthem!
 Though for quiet and rest he may yearn,
 It pursues him at every turn—
 No chance of forsaking
 Its rococo numbers;
 They haunt him when waking—
 They poison his slumbers!
 Like the Banbury Lady, whom every one knows,
 He's cursed with its music wherever he goes!
 Though its words but imperfectly rhyme,
 And the devil himself couldn't scan them,
 With composure polite he endures day and night
 That illiterate National Anthem!

It serves a good purpose, I own:
 Its strains are devout and impressive—
 Its heartstirring notes raise a lump in our throats
 As we burn with devotion excessive:
 But the King, who's been bored by that song
 From his cradle—each day—all day long—
 Who's heard it loud-shouted
 By throats operatic,
 And loyally spouted
 By courtiers emphatic—
 By soldier—by sailor—by drum and by fife—
 Small blame if he thinks it the plague of his life!
 While his subjects sing loudly and long,
 Their King—who would willingly ban them—
 Sits, worry disguising, anathematizing
 That Bogie, the National Anthem!

CHRIS. It is pleasant to know that we are of kindred lot, for if you are a strolling player, why I am but a poor ballad-singer, and our callings have much in common. I am at my ease now, but at first—you will laugh at me, I know—I almost thought I was speaking to the Regent himself!

REG. I have been given to understand that there is a certain resemblance.

CHRIS. It is marvellous! Do you know his Highness, sir? (anxiously.)

REG. Well, I can scarcely say. We have never met, face to face.

CHRIS. (disappointed). Then you do not know him.

REG. Very good—then I do not know him: but—I know his tailor.

CHRIS. His tailor?

REG. Yes. I frequently see his tailor, and his tailor tells me, in strictest confidence, that (impressively) his Highness is at least three inches more round the waist than he is here represented to be! So be prepared for a disappointment!

CHRIS. (laughing). Why, sir, I believe there is nothing in this wide world that concerns me less than the measure of his Highness's waist! Such a trifle weighs but little with me.

REG. (aside). It weighs a good deal with me! (Aloud.) And do you pass much time in the society of his Highness's effigy?

CHRIS. Why, in truth, much more than is prudent.

REG. Oh, he won't hurt you—I should say that you were quite safe with him. But beware of the Regent himself, for men say that he is a terrible Turk!

CHRIS. The Regent, sir, is nought to me. Yet, to speak truly, I am loth to believe that there can be aught but good in one whom that statue so strongly resembles!

REG. Then—I may take it that you do not believe there is much of evil in me?

CHRIS. (confused). Why, sir—in truth—nay, this is scarcely fair dealing. I spake not of yourself, but of the Regent.

REG. And I so strongly resemble him!

CHRIS. I think, sir, I will go.

REG. Nay, be not angry with me for drawing so pleasant a conclusion from premisses of your own making! (Tenderly.) I would fain hope that you are not angry with me.

CHRIS. Nay, sir, I am not angry. I spake foolishly, and I am well served. But I have tarried too long; I have to go to the Castle Green—I am to sing there.

REG. Why, I am likewise bound thither, for I have to see the Governor. (Tenderly.) Who knows but that we may meet again!

CHRIS. (moved). It is very like. (Recovering herself.) But the day is speeding, and I have to sing for my supper. So fare you well, Master — ?

REG. Nils Egilsson. (Kissing her hand.)

[Exit CHRISTINA.

REG. Well, as a bachelor heir-apparent, I've had a tolerably comprehensive experience of young ladies ; but of all the maids I ever met, this is the fairest, the most winning, and the most original ! What a refreshing experience ! It's like the breath of the hay-field after a season of hot ball-rooms ! We shall meet again, my pretty ballad-singer, unless I greatly err. And now to encounter this precious Governor.

Enter GOVERNOR GRIFFENFELD.

GRIF. The Syndic has received his charmer's letter, and he's on the tip-toe of expectation and delight. I shall get rid of her—I shall get rid of her !

REG. Not knowing the lady, but speaking on general principles, I should say that you couldn't do better.

GRIF. Hallo, sir, who are you who presume to convert into a duologue that which was intended for a soliloquy ?

REG. I'm Nils Egilsson—strolling player—sadly out of repair, and greatly in need of a handsome salary, paid weekly in advance.

GRIF. A professional rogue, eh ?

REG. Well—a technical rogue—much as lawyer is a technical gentleman—that is to say, by Act of Parliament.

GRIF. You pipe to a sharp note, sir. We keep a cage for such gaol-birds as you. (Aside.) Where have I seen this fellow's face ?

REG. Well, I think I sing best behind bars.

GRIF. (aside). Where have I seen this fellow's face ?

REG. Surely you're not the Governor ?

GRIF. Yes, sir, I am the Governor of this Province.

REG. A thousand pardons ! I took you for the borough constable. A hasty conclusion based upon a commendable absence of that superficial polish which the vulgar are but too apt to associate with the conception of a gentleman. The Governor ! (bowing.) A worshipful gentleman, I'll be sworn, appearances notwithstanding. A thousand pardons !

GRIF. (who, during this speech, has been studying the REGENT's face). I have it ! It's the statue ! Why, he's marvellously like it ! (Aloud.) Hark ye, sirrah ! you are an actor, you say ?

REG. A poor actor.

GRIF. Ready at a moment's notice to play any part that may be entrusted to you? Kings, princes, and so forth?

REG. Why, I'm famous for my kings. There's an air of aristocratic impudence about me—you may have remarked it—which is eminently suited to your monarchs of genteel comedy. My tyrants, too, are much admired. "What, bearded to our face, and by a very boy? The moat is dry—load him with chains, and stifle him in its reeking mud! Ha! ha! I will be obeyed!"

GRIF. Yes—That's not good, you know. Rather amateurish, I should say. Played a long engagement in the Theatre Royal Back Drawing Room, I should imagine. By the way, have you ever heard it remarked that you bear a close resemblance to a very dignified personage?

REG. Eh? Oh, you mean the man who mends boots on the quay. That's very likely—he's my aunt.

GRIF. The man who mends fiddlesticks!

REG. I don't think I know him.

GRIF. No, sir—not to the man who mends boots—to no less a person than the Prince Regent of Denmark.

REG. The Prince Regent?

GRIF. There he is. He's a common-looking fellow, and you are singularly like him.

REG. You flatter me, I'm sure (looking at statue). Well, some fellows have the deuce's own luck. Here is a man—the heir to a throne—caressed, courted, and flattered by the highest in the land—pampered with every luxury that the ingenuity of the devil or man can devise—and, hang me! if, in addition to all this, he isn't exactly like me! It's enough to turn the fellow's head!

GRIF. He's an ugly fellow, sir, and so are you. Therein lies the chief resemblance. Now attend to me. If you will consent to personate his Highness for twenty-four hours, acting exactly as I shall prescribe to you, you shall have—well, you shall have five golden Freidrichs!

REG. Five golden Freidrichs!

GRIF. Then you consent?

REG. Consent? What is there that I wouldn't consent to for five golden Freidrichs? But my dress—it's a convenient outfit for summer weather; but not, I should say, what the Regent of Denmark would wear—except, perhaps, in the bosom of his family after the cares of State are over for the day.

GRIF. I've provided for that. The sculptor of that statue borrowed a left-off suit of the Regent's from his Highness's valet—for artistic purposes. It's now at the castle, packed up, ready to be returned. I should say it would fit you to a nicety.

REG. (aside). I've not the least doubt of it. When am I to begin?

GRIF. To-morrow morning. It'll be great fun!

REG. It will be a tremendous joke.

GRIF. So original! With such possibilities! Fancy—a sham Regent dispensing sham wealth and sham honours untold on all my sham friends—and then their disappointment when they discover that it's only my fun!

REG. Ha! ha! I'm longing to begin!

(During the last few lines CHRISTINA has entered. She listens, concealed behind statue.)

DUET.—REGENT and GRIFFENFELD.

REG. I've grasped your scheme, if I may say as much without intrusion:

As Regent-Prince I must ennoble all without exclusion,
And scatter honours all around in liberal profusion—
Then you'll step in and, with a word, dispel the fond illusion!

GRIF. Then I'll step in—

REG. Then you'll step in—

GRIF. And with a word—

REG. And with a word—

Then you'll step in and, with a word, dispel the fond illusion!

GRIF. (excitedly). Exactly so! exactly so! exactly so! exactly so!

For understand what I require—
Give every man his heart's desire,
Then I'll explain the ins and out—
In half an hour or thereabouts!

BOTH. Then { I'll } explain the ins and outs—{ you'll }

ENSEMBLE.

Oh, human joy at best is brief—
Alas, too soon it's turned to grief!
So it's our duty, you'll allow,
Our fellow creatures to endow
With happiness complete and vast—

REG. Although that happiness may last—

GRIF. Although that happiness may last—

BOTH. But half an hour or thereabouts !

But half an hour—

But half an hour—

But half an hour or thereabouts !

[Exit GRIFFENFELD.]

CHRIS. (coming forward from behind statue).

I overheard !

REG. You did? Confusion !

But not a word

Of this delusion—

No single phrase—

No faint suggestion—

To haply raise

A doubt or question !

If fault or blunder visible

I make in this experiment—

Control your muscles risible,

And check untimely merriment.

Address me most respectfully—

Regard with silent shyness me—

With eyes cast down subjectively ;—

And mind you “Royal Highness” me !

Now don’t forget—now don’t forget,

Be sure you “Royal Highness” me !

CHRIS. With all devotion beautiful,

I’ll favour your expedient—

I’ll be your very dutiful—

I’ll be your most obedient—

You’ll find me all docility,

You miracle of slyness, you !

I’ll curtsey with humility,

And always “Royal Highness” you !

I won’t forget—I won’t forget—

I’ll always “Royal Highness” you !

ENSEMBLE.

Oh never was seen

Such a pearl of a Prince,

With { his } dignified mien
 { my }

He is }

I am } sure to convince :

In { his } gracious address
 { my }

There is Royalty shown—

And a baby could guess

He's } the heir to a throne !
 I'm }

Ha ! ha ! ha ! ha !—Ha ! ha ! ha ! ha !

Oh a baby could guess he's the heir to a throne !

[Exeunt in opposite directions.]

Enter the SYNDIC, with DAME CORTLANDT's letter in his hand.

SYN. It's a singular thing, but I never yet proposed to a very unattractive old lady without being immediately accepted. Now here is an unattractive old lady—about to be married to no less a personage than the Governor of this Province, and I have only to beckon to her, and down comes the confiding old dove with no further thought about the Governor, except to stipulate that her change of intention shall be kept a secret from him for the present ! Here comes the old dear, true to the appointment of her own making. How—how rich she looks, to be sure !

Enter DAME CORTLANDT.

DAME (bashfully). Master Munck—I—I ventured to send you a letter this morning.

SYN. A most delightful letter, and one that, believe me, I shall prize while I live !

DAME (surprised). You are vastly obliging ! (Aside.) Collecting autographs, I suppose. (Aloud.) Now, you will understand that, for the reasons explained in my letter, I am most anxious that the subject of our conversation shall be kept a profound secret.

SYN. Madam, I will be most careful. You—you are the discreetest little gipsy in Denmark !

DAME. Sir !

SYN. Quite right—can't be too cautious, even between ourselves. I quite grasp the idea.

DAME (aside). He is singularly effusive for a confidential family lawyer ! (Aloud.) I daresay you are aware that I am well to do.

SYN. Well, I certainly have heard that Dame Cortlandt is a lady of some means—but oh, she does her lover a grave injustice if she imagines that he allowed a mercenary consideration to influence him.

DAME (surprised). Why, of course I know that !

SYN. Such a dainty, tight, trim, bewitching little rogue requires no—

DAME (suddenly furious). Eh ? What's that ? I'm a little rogue ! This man presumes to tell me that I am a little rogue !

SYN. But, my dear lady—

DAME. Don't speak—they're fighting it out—they're fighting it out !

SYN. Bless my heart, how very interesting !

DAME (having swallowed her anger—severely). It's all right, Master Munck, and, for the moment, the Temper is floored, but don't try that again. Perhaps—perhaps we had better discuss my affairs at another time—when you have slept it off, whatever it is.

SYN. No, don't go—let me gaze a little longer on—(DAME about to break out.) I didn't say it ! I didn't say it ! I stopped in time !

DAME (aside). He's very eccentric for a confidential family lawyer ! (Aloud.) I wish you to take instructions about the settlements on the occasion of—(bashfully) my forthcoming marriage.

SYN. My dear lady ! (takes out note-book).

DAME. There are my two freehold farms, the three houses in Dentheim, and twelve thousand rix dollars in Government securities. I wish to settle all this, absolutely, on my dear husband.

SYN. What, all !!!

DAME. Every penny.

SYN. Dearest ! (DAME about to break out again. SYNDIC checks himself.) I didn't say it ! I didn't say it ! I thought it, but I didn't say it !

DUET.—DAME and SYNDIC.

DAME. Now all that we've agreed upon, O—
And all that's passed between us—
No human soul must know,
Be he a friend or foe.

SYN. You lean no broken reed upon, O—
In Courts of Law and Venus
(I've practised much in both)
I'm always on my oath !

DAME. What always ?

SYN. Always !

DAME. Always ?

SYN. Always !
Always on my oath !

You'll find I am
Discreetly dumb,
So trust me, ma'am—
The word is mum—

DAME

SYN. Of all I know
 I'll give no clue,
 You little ro—
 guey poguey, you !
 You little roguey poguey !

DAME (indignantly). Sir !

SYN. You little roguey poguey !

DAME. Sir !!

SYN. You roguey poguey, roguey poguey, roguey poguey !

DAME. Sir !!!

ENSEMBLE.

DAME (aside).SYNDIC (aside).

Although of men's vulgarity, O— If called upon in charity, O—
 I'm no unfair inquisitor, To justify my visitor,
 I hate familiarity, O— I'll quote my popularity, O
 In a family solicitor ! As a family solicitor.

BOTH. As a family, family, family, family—
 A family solicitor !

DAME. Your tone is not professional, O—
 It's neither grave nor courtly :
 Such lack of common sense
 Inspires no confidence.

SYN. By gradual steps progressional, O—
 I'll reach the haven shortly,
 But till that moment sweet
 I'll never be indiscreet !

DAME. What, never ?

SYN. Never !

DAME. Never ?

SYN. Never !

Never be indiscreet !

(Dancing.) Those lips command,
 And I obey,
 Though close at hand,
 The joyous day
 When I may sip
 Their honey dew—
 You little pip—sy wipsy you !
 You little pipsy wipsy !

DAME. Sir !

SYN. You little pipsy wipsy !
 DAME. Sir !!
 SYN. You pipsy wipsy, pipsy wipsy, pipsy wipsy !
 DAME. Sir !!!

ENSEMBLE.

DAME (aside).SYNDIC (aside).

What sentiments transgressional !	These gradual steps progressional,
O—	O—
It's bad, I've understood, for them.	Wait any time I would for them—
When gentlemen professional,	When gentlemen professional,
O—	O—
Take more than is quite good for them !	Gain widows rich, it's good for them !
BOTH. When gentlemen, gentlemen, gentlemen, gentlemen—
{ Take more than is good for them !
{ Widows gain, it's good for them !

[Exeunt separately.]

Enter ERLING SYKKE, with large unopened official letter in his hand.

ERL. At last—the reply to my letter announcing to his Majesty the completion of the statue ! Every hope and every fear of my life lies within the four corners of this document ! What may it not contain ? Perhaps an order on the King's Treasurer for my ten thousand rix-dollars ! Perhaps my appointment as Court Sculptor ! Perhaps even my patent of Countship ! I tremble so that I can scarcely open it !

(NANNA has entered at the back. She creeps up to him with suppressed fun in her face.)

NANNA. Oh, what a big letter ! Whom is it from, and what's it all about !

ERL. Nanna, this letter is to seal your destiny and mine—so, as you are as much concerned with it as I am, I think we ought to open it together. It's—it's from the King's private secretary !

NANNA. Oh, do be quick and let's see what's in it !

ERL. You open it—I can't ! (Giving her the letter.)

NANNA. I can. Now then—one ! two ! three ! (NANNA opens it.)

ERL. Read—read !

NANNA (looking at it). Oh! I don't think you'll like it. Oh! I'm sure you won't like it! (Reads.) "Sir—In reply to a letter in which you announce the completion of a statue of His Royal Highness Prince Frederick, alleged by you to have been commissioned by His Majesty, I have to inform you that His Majesty knows nothing about it."

ERL. (stunned). Knows nothing about it!

NANNA. There seems to be some mistake.

ERL. Some mistake! Why, what do you mean?

NANNA. Why that, at the first blush, it bears the appearance of being one of dear papa's practical jokes.

ERL. But it's ruin! Absolute ruin! Why, I spent every penny I possessed on the marble alone!

NANNA. I'm so sorry!

ERL. Sorry! I can't realize it! It stuns me! It's too cruel—too cruel! And the promise you made me—

NANNA. Oh, the promise! Ye—es—the conditional promise.

ERL. Don't tell me that that was a hoax too! Give me some hope to cling to! I can bear it all if you'll only tell me that you won't discard me!

NANNA. Really, it's extremely awkward; but one must be a little prudent. I'm a very expensive young lady, and as it seems that you have no immediate prospect of being able to maintain an establishment, it would be really criminal on my part to involve you in further embarrassments.

(ERLING sinks hopelessly on pedestal of statue, and buries his head in his hands.)

SONG.—NANNA.

My wedded life
 Must every pleasure bring
 On scale extensive!
 If I'm your wife
 I must have have everything
 That's most expensive—
 A lady's maid—
 (My hair alone to do
 I am not able)—
 And I'm afraid
 I've been accustomed to
 A first-rate table.

These things one must consider when one marrries—
And everything I wear must come from Paris !

Oh, think of that !

Oh, think of that !

I can't wear anything that's not from Paris !

From top to toes

Quite Frenchified I am,

If you examine.

And then—who knows?—

Perhaps some day a fam—

Perhaps a famine !

My argument's correct, if you examine,

What should we do, if there should come a f-famine !

Though in green pea

Yourself you needn't stint

In July sunny,

In Januaree

It really costs a mint—

A mint of money !

No lamb for us—

House lamb at Christmas sells

At prices handsome :

Asparagus,

In winter, parallels

A Monarch's ransom :

When purse to bread and butter barely reaches,

What is your wife to do for hot-house peaches ?

Ah ! tell me that !

Ah ! tell me that !

What is your wife to do for hot-house peaches ?

Your heart and hand

Though at my feet you lay,

All others scorning !

As matters stand,

There's nothing else to say

Except—good-morning !

'Though virtue be a husband's best adorning,

That won't pay rates and taxes—so, good-morning !

[Exit NANNA.

ERL. Cruel, cold, calculating girl ! What on earth am I to do ?
Ruin and desolation stare me in the face !

Enter TORTENSSEN in great excitement, with an open letter in his hand.

TOR. Erling ! I am tricked, swindled, undone ! I have just received a letter from the King's secretary to say that my appointment is a hoax! I've sold my local practice, let my house, and Thora repudiates me with indignation and contempt!

ERL. Again the Governor's doing! I, also, have just learnt that the commission for the Regent's statue is a heartless fabrication, and I, too, am ruined—utterly and completely ruined!

TOR. My poor Erling!

ERL. But this is no time for idle regrets. A term must be put to this scoundrel's practices. We will call the people together, tell them of the infamous trick that has been played upon us, and then away to Copenhagen to lay the whole matter before the Regent himself!

TOR. We will, we will!

FINALE.

ERL. and TOR. Come hither, every one,
Come hither, all!
Let every mother's son
Obey our call!
Come hither in your might,
In stern parade,
And learn the deadly slight
Upon you played!

(During this the Chorus, CHRISTINA, HAROLD, and BLANCA have entered.)

ALL. Why, who the deuce has dared to play
A trick, at Elsinore, to-day?
Come, tell us quick,
This scurvy trick,
Why, who the deuce has dared to play?

ERL. (passionately). That statue—who commissioned it?

ALL. The King!

ERL. And on that spot positioned it?

ALL. The King!

Court sculptor who created me,
And told me rank awaited me,
Which pleased you and elated me?

ALL. The King!

TOR. (furiously). Who raised me from obscurity?

ALL. The King!

TOR. And gilded my futurity?

ALL. The King

TOR. Physician who appointed me?
With baron's rank anointed me,
Till foolish pride disjointed me?

ALL. The King!
The King he did and said it all,
He did this noble thing!
Give him the fame and credit all,
His Majesty the King!
God save the King!
Hurrah!

ERL. A lie! No monarch honoured you by honouring us,
Or for that cursed statue gave commission;
No monarch with preception generous,
Appointed Tortenssen his Court Physician!
No royal sunlight on our labours shone—
You have been cheated, tricked, and played upon!

ALL. We have been cheated, tricked and played upon?
Oh, shame!
Who is the culprit? We've no time for trifling!
With choking indignation we are stifling!

Enter DAME CORTLANDT in a towering rage, followed by SYNDIC, who tries in vain to appease her.

DAME. The truth's revealed, the mystery dispelled—
The culprit is—the Governor Griffenfeld!
He doesn't confine to lowly folks
His base barbarian dealings,
But dares to play his practical jokes
Upon my tenderest feelings!
Assuming that for you I glowed (to SYNDIC),
You Syndical mountebank, you!
He—(symptoms of an approaching outbreak).

ALL. Pray be careful or you'll explode!

DAME (with an effort). I'm keeping it under, thank you!

ALL. Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
She's keeping it under! thank you!

DAME. Henceforth I vow, with hate intense,
To crush that Governor pagan!
Whatever the cost, at my expense,
We'll go to Copenhagen.
There to the Regent we'll complain,
In volleys of vocal thunder—

(Further symptoms of an outbreak.)

ALL. Now steady, or you'll be off again!

DAME (with an effort). All right, I'm keeping it under !

ALL. Brava ! Brava ! Brava ! Brava !
Dame Cortlandt's keeping it under !

Enter GRIFFENFELD, NANNA and THORA.

ALL. Ah !
Here's the monkey undiscerning,
Who, all thought of mercy spurning,
Dares with men of light and learning
Thus to play the pranksome fool !
Launch at him our loudest thunder—
Tear him limb from limb asunder !
Long enough we've suffered under
His detested monkey-rule !

GRIF. What means this uproar which my comfort shatters ?
Explain, I beg ! Are ye March hares, or hatters ?

DAME. No madmen we—but matters not to mince,
To Copenhagen we depart,
With rage and fury in each heart,
To interview our sovereign Regent-Prince !

GRIF. The Regent ?

ALL. Aye, the Regent !

GRIF. Not so loud.
Be pacified I beg, excited crowd !
This state of indignation do not foment—
The Regent's here, in Elsinore, at this moment !

ALL. The Regent here !

GRIF., NANNA and THORA. In Elsinore at this moment !

TRIO.—GOVERNOR, NANNA and THORA.

After a travelling troublesome,
Quit of the Court and the quality—
Weary of bobbery bubblesome—
Weary of party and polity,
Full of a jolly jocosity,
Out of the pale of propriety—
Hating the pride of pomposity—
Sick of that sort of society,
Regent is resting his brain
Here in our little domain ! (repeat)

Seeking a time of tranquillity,
 Free from all fear of formality,
 Finds it in jolly gentility
 Here in this lovely locality—
 Doffing all duty and dignity
 (Follies that fidget him fearfully),
 Vows that our merry malignity
 Favours his chirruping cheerfully—
 Vows he'll again and again
 Visit our little domain! (repeat)

ALL. Seeking a time of tranquillity, &c.

(GRIFFENFELD, NANNA and THORA dancing through this.)

CHORUS. This is our chance to explain—
 Tell of our sorrow and pain!

SEXTET.

ERLING, TORTENSSEN, SYNDIC, HAROLD, CHRISTINA, and DAME
 CORTLANDT.

HAR. This is our opportunity—
 It may not come again.

GRIF., NANNA, and THORA (in affected terror). No, no!

ER. To lay bare with impunity
 Our misery and pain.

GRIF., NANNA, and THORA (in affected terror). No, no!

TORT. We'll beg, with due severity,
 His speedy punishment.

GRIF., NANNA, and THORA (in affected terror). No, no!

THE SIX. And that with all celerity
 To gaol he may be sent!

GRIF., NANNA, and THORA (in affected terror). No, no!
 No, no! not that; avert our doom!
 Why it would be our ruin!

Can you resist when we assume
 This attitude to sue in. (Kneeling—repeat.)

ALL. Yes, yes!
 Ha, ha!
 Yes, yes!
 Ha, ha!

We can resist, though you assume
 That attitude to sue in!

(Laughing derisively at GRIFFENFELD and DAUGHTERS.)

Ha, ha ! ha, ha ! ha, ha ! ha, ha !

GRIF. and DAUGHTERS (as if crying). Ho, ho ! ho, ho ! &c.

GRIF. Oh, pray have mercy ! Do not pour
Upon a hapless Governor,
Who treads a rather devious path,
The vials of your mighty wrath !

NANNA and THORA. Oh pray you be magnanimous,
'Twill ruin him and ruin us—
In sheer good humour it was done—
Oh haven't you any sense of fun ?

ALL THREE. Oh haven't you any sense of fun ?
Oh haven't you any sense of fun ? (pretending to cry).

THORA. Ah, don't be hard on one whose passion ruling
Was, from his birth, a taste for April fooling !

ALL THREE. Ah, don't be hard, &c.

ERL. and TOR. Go, traitress, go !
Of such a foe
I scorn the vain appeal.
With rage I fume !
Your father's doom
This day the Prince shall seal.
In vain you cry,
And sob and sigh,
In vain you kneel, I say !

GRIF., NANNA } Oh, pity me, pity me, pity me, pity me, and THORA. } Pity me, pity me, pray !

CHORUS. Of all that's mean
And vile, I ween,
In an underhanded way,
Epitome-pitome-pitome-pitome-pitome-pitome they !

ENSEMBLE.

ALL (except GRIFFENFELD, NANNA and THORA). GRIFFENFELD, NANNA, and THORA (aside).

Shall we endure this outrage, say ?	When a Governor triumphs through quibble
Are we but toys to serve his whim ?	and quiddity,
Is he on heartstrings thus to play,	He may employ, with a cheerful avidity,
As may, perchance, seem good to him ?	Any amount of tol-lol-the-rol liddity,
	Tol-the-rol, lol-the-rol, lol-the-rol-lay !

ALL. To the Regent, away !

GRIF., NANNA }
and THORA. } Tol-the-rol-the-rol-lay !

ALL. To the Regent, away !

GRIF., NANNA } Tol-the-rol-the-rol-lay !
and THORA. }

ALL. To the Regent—the Regent—the Regent, away !

GRIF., NANNA } Tol-the-rol-the-rol, lol-the-rol, lol-the-rol-lay !

(All rush off furiously, except CHRISTINA, who remains laughing up stage, and GRIFFENFELD, NANNA, and THORA, who sink, exhausted with laughter, on seat at foot of statue.)

END OF ACT I.

Upspake their Queen, and thus spake she—
 “‘This is a matter that rests with me,
 Who dares opinions thus to form?
 I’ll tell you when it is time to swarm!’”

Buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz.

Her Majesty wore an angry frown,
 In fact her Majesty’s foot was down—
 Her Majesty sulked—declined to sup—
 In short her Majesty’s back was up.

Buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz,

Her foot was down and her back was up!

That hive contained one obstinate bee
 (His name was Peter), and thus spake he—
 “Though every bee has shown white feather,
 To bow to fashion I am not prone—
 Why should a hive swarm all together?
 Surely a bee can swarm alone?”

Buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz,
 Upside down and inside out,
 Backwards forwards round about,
 Twirling here and twisting there,
 Topsy turvily everywhere—

Buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz.

Pitiful sight it was to see
 Respectable elderly high-class bee,
 Who kicked the beam at sixteen stone,
 Trying his best to swarm alone!

Buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz.

Trying his best to swarm alone!

The hive were shocked to see their chum
 (A strict teetotaller) teetotum—
 The Queen exclaimed, “How terrible, very!
 It’s perfectly clear to all the throng
 Peter’s been at the old brown sherry.

Old brown sherry is much too strong—

Buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz.

Of all who thus themselves degrade
 A stern example must be made,
 To Coventry go, you tipsy bee!
 So off to Coventry town went he.

Buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz.

There, classed with all who misbehave,
 Both plausible rogue and noisome knave,
 In dismal dumps he lived to own
 The folly of trying to swarm alone!

Buzz, buzz, buzz, buzz.

All came of trying to swarm alone.

CHORUS.

All came of trying to, &c.

Enter MATS MUNCK from Castle.

ALL. Well, well—what news?
Does he refuse
Our rightful dues?
What news—what news?

MATS. Good news! the Regent, whom we all revere,
Will read your neatly drawn appeal—
(I drew it!)
Without an hour's delay he'll meet you here,
And if we prove our case the Governor'll rue it!

ALL. Hurrah!

MATS. If these our charges home we bring,
He swears the Governor's neck he'll wring;
And when he says he'll do a thing,
He'll do it!

ALL. Hurrah!
The sorrows that damped our lives are past,
And happily all will end at last.
As soon as the audience has been held,
Good-bye to the Governor Griffenfeld!

MEN. Good-bye!

GIRLS. Good-bye!

MEN. Good-bye!

GIRLS. Good-bye!

ALL. Good-bye to the Governor Griffenfeld!

Enter NANNA and THORA. They come forward humbly.

ERL. and TORT. (recit.) Ah, false one!

THORA. With humbled head—in desperation dire—
I tidings bring from my repentant sire.
He much regrets his foolish whim—

NANNA. And hopes you'll intercede for him;
For, though his gorge at retractation rises,
He's very sorry—and apologises,

THORA. He can't say more—

BOTH. He's very sorry—and apologises!

ERL. and TOR. Be comforted—I can't resist that tear!
At once I'll seek our Sovereign Prince's ear,
And tell him—though our future you destroy it—
I don't mind ruination—I enjoy it!

Enter GRIFFENFELD from Castle.

GRIF. (humbly). Complying with the popular request,
So prettily expressed—

SYN. (aside). I drew it !

GRIF. The Regent comes—forgive our little plot—
Our penitence, do not
Pooh pooh it !

NANNA. If still to press your grievance you agree,
Then I feel certain we Shall rue it !

THORA. So please withdraw, as we are penitent,
That well-drawn document !

SYN. (aside). I drew it !

ALL. No no, no mercy will we show—
Away with you ! you plead in vain !
No word of ours shall stop the blow ;
Your prayer we will not entertain !

Flourish. Enter REGENT.

PRINCIPALS
and CHORUS. Hail, oh Regent Prince,
Coming to requite us !
Matters not to mince,
You will nobly right us.
Your disgust evince—
Make the tyrant wince—
Hail, oh Sovereign Prince,
Whose decrees delight us !

RECIT.—REGENT.

I've read your dutiful memorial :
If any other for reprisals call,
Or, suffering grievance, wish me to abate it,
This is your opportunity to state it.

HAR. (recit.). May it please your Highness !

AIR.

HAR. Though we're eager for to sally
To the doughty field of Mars—

SOLDIERS. May it please your Royal Highness !

HAR. And encounter, generally,
Any quantity of scars—

SOLDIERS. May it please your Royal Highness !

HAR. Yet for mischief, principally,
He has turned us into ballet,
And we feel it personally—
It is rough on brave Hussars !

REG. Yes, it's rough on brave Hussars !

ALL. Yes, you're right, your Royal Highness, it is rough on brave Hussars !

HAR. If we urge, in accents courtly,
That it wounds our proper pride—

SOLDIERS. May it please your Royal Highness !

HAR. Why, he answers as retortly,
And for mutiny we're tried—

SOLDIERS. May it please your Royal Highness !

HAR. We are soldiers grave and portly,
And it aggravates us mort'ly,
For, to put the matter shortly,
Well, it is not dignified !

ALL. No, it isn't dignified !

REG. No it isn't dignified !

ALL. Look at this, your Royal Highness—it is far from dignified !

BALLET OF HUSSARS.

SONG.—REGENT.

My people, who've submitted to the Governor's absurdities,
I sympathize most heartily with every word you say ;
His Excellency's conduct is too bad—upon my word it is—
But all his wrong I'll rectify without undue delay.
On Erling, who has suffered from his mischievous malignity,
We shed the sunny summer of our Sovereign benignity,
And ratify all promises of dollars and of dignity.
So consequently Nanna will be his this very day.

ALL. So consequently Nanna will be his this very day.

ENSEMBLE.

REGENT (aside to GRIF.).	GRIF. (aside to REGENT).	ERLING (aside).
Your orders I am trying to obey,	My orders you implicitly obey,	Oh, Nanna will be mine this very day,
I hope I don't exceed in any way ;	Proceed with perfect certainty you may ;	And all my sorrows hide themselves away ;
For so nobly you array me,	Now unmercifully flay me,	For the trick he dared to play me,
So magnificently pay me,	And with punishment dismay me,	It will handsomely repay me,
That your orders I am anxious to obey.	Or my orders you will surely disobey.	If Miss Nanna will be mine this very day.

NANNA (aside).

It's fortunate that this is all in play,
 I shouldn't like to marry him to-day ;
 It would terribly dismay be,
 If he really came to claim me,
 It is lucky that it's only said in play.

THORA, other Principals and Chorus.

Oh, Nanna will be his this very day,
 And all his sorrows hide themselves away ;
 I will handsomely array me
 In my very best to play me,
 For Miss Nanna will be his this very day !

You, Tortenssen,—whom Griffenfeld with impudent audacity
 Appointed our Physician—why, that gift is ratified
 With promised rank of Baron—in that dignified capacity
 He's warranted in claiming pretty Thora as his bride.
 And Harold, gallant Corporal, whom with a spite oppressional,
 Was made to twist and turn about like ballet-girl professional,
 Dispensing with the many intermediate steps progressional,
 A Colonel he's created at one mighty giant stride !
 ALL. A Colonel he's created at one mighty giant stride.

ENSEMBLE.

REGENT (aside to GRIF.).	GRIF. (aside to REGENT).	HAROLD and TORTENSSEN.
I trust your Excellency's satisfied,	So far, my Excellency's satisfied,	Upon my word, I'm truly gratified,
To carry out your wishes I have tried—	To carry out my wishes you have tried ;	To justify your choice will be my pride ;
If I haven't acted rightly	When you fail to do it rightly	For I think you've chosen rightly,
You will mention it politely,	I will mention it politely,	And I thank you most politely,
But, I trust your Excellency's satisfied.	But, so far, my Excellency's satisfied.	For, upon my word, I'm truly gratified

THORA (aside).

If he thinks that I intend to be his bride,
 He'll find it a mistake unqualified,
 If I know my feelings rightly,
 I will thank him most politely,
 And decline, on any terms, to be his bride.

Other Principals and Chorus.

Upon my word, we're truly gratified,
 To justify your choice will be their pride ;
 For we think you've chosen rightly,
 And we thank you most politely,
 For, upon my word, we're truly gratified.

And now for Governor Griffenfeld—we highly to extol you meant,
 But, finding you're addicted to discreditable pranks,
 We strip you of your dignity, position, and emolument,
 And name Mats Munck as Governor—we don't want any thanks.

And, as in these proceedings we are banded all in unity,
 I think we couldn't find a more convenient opportunity
 Of proving that imposture can't be practised with impunity.
 (To GRIFFENFELD.)

For all your impositions you're degraded to the ranks !

ALL. For all his impositions he's degraded to the ranks !

ENSEMBLE.

REG. (aside to GRIF.).	GRIF. (aside to REG.).	SYNDIC.
I think I have done exactly as you said,	You've done it pretty nearly as I've said,	Now really this is like to turn my head,
I'm sure I hope I haven't been misled ;	If you hadn't you'd have sacrificed your head.	For I'm to rule as Governor instead !
When I receive my payment,	You shall now receive your payment,	When I get my quarter's payment,
I'll surrender all this raiment,	So take off that handsome raiment,	I'll buy all his left-off raiment,
And resume my old habiliments instead.	And resume your old habiliments instead.	And it's possible Dame Corlandt I may wed.

NANNA and THORA (aside to each other).

Did you hear what that audacious fellow said ?

My goodness, how exceedingly ill-bred !

Let us give the man his payment,

Then he'll doff his splendid raiment,

And resume his own habiliments instead.

CHORUS, and other Principals.

Assuredly there's nothing to be said,
 He's lucky in escaping with his head !

He loses all his payment,

And his most expensive raiment,

And he'll take his turn at sentry-go instead !

REG. Now all you men and maidens true,
 Who troth have duly plighted—
 (I understand you're not a few)
 Your wrongs shall all be righted :
 At his expense a banquet to
 You're cordially invited,
 And in the Castle Chapel you
 This day shall be united !

ALL. Hurrah !
 (all dancing) Oh, bright delight—go, find a priest !
 The wedding and the wedding feast,
 At your expense, will soon be held—
 So thank you, Private Griffenfeld !
 Ha, ha, ha, ha, &c.
 At your expense they will be held,
 Three cheers for Private Griffenfeld !

ALL. So, thank you—

GRIF. Thank you—

ALL. Thank you—

GRIF. Thank you—

ALL. Thank you, Private Griffenfeld !

(All dance off in couples, except GRIFFENFELD and REGENT.)

REG. (changing his manner—very humbly). I trust I've fairly carried out your Excellency's instructions?

GRIF. You've done pretty well, sir—only pretty well!

REG. May I ask in what respect I have failed?

GRIF. Your manner is not sufficiently dignified for a Royal Prince—you want a great deal more of this sort of thing—(business)—you are not at all Royal, sir!

REG. I see what you mean. (imitating him.) Thank you, I'm sure—it will be most useful to me in my profession, and I'll take care to remember it. But pray bear in mind that, as a poor stroller, I have not enjoyed your Excellency's many opportunities of making myself acquainted with the deportment of the very highest classes.

GRIF. True, but I told you this afternoon that you must endeavour to assume an air of—of this sort of thing—(business). Then again, your instructions were to order me to be shot in twenty-four hours. Why didn't you do that?

REG. Well, I was about to give the order, but when I saw the temper of the people and how cordially you are detested—most unjustly, I'm sure—I was afraid to do so lest, in their fury, they should execute the order on the spot.

GRIF. I see what you mean.

REG. I might not have had time to stop them.

GRIF. Very true.

REG. But its not too late—they can be sent for directly and the order given, without delay. (About to go off.)

GRIF. No—on second thoughts it's not necessary. It will do as it is.

REG. I trust you think that I exercised a wise discretion?

GRIF. Well, on the whole, perhaps yes. I say—it's—it's a good joke, isn't it?

REG. It's a perfect monument of practical humour. Only—forgive the suggestion—isn't it a little risky?

GRIF. Risky! What do you mean?

REG. Somehow these practical jokes have such a tendency to recoil on the heads of their perpetrators. Now, mere verbal humour is so much safer—a quip, a crank, a jibe, jape or jest—

GRIF. Nonsense, sir, don't talk to me about japes and jests! Return to the castle, and when you've resumed your rags, I will pay you the five golden Freidrichs I promised you. Be off!

REG. As your Excellency pleases. [Exit REGENT into castle.]

GRIF. What does he mean about practical jokes recoiling on their perpetrator. I ought to know. I've played them with impunity for five-and-forty years ! It's all very well to talk about verbal humour, but where is it to come from ? Why, everything of the kind has been said—there's absolutely nothing left !

SONG.—GRIFFENFELD.

Quixotic is his enterprise, and hopeless his adventure is,
 Who seeks for jocularities that haven't yet been said.
 The world has joked incessantly for over fifty centuries,
 And every joke that's possible has long ago been made.
 I started as a humourist with lots of mental fizziness,
 But humour is a drug which it's the fashion to abuse ;
 For my stock in trade, my fixtures, and the goodwill of the business
 No reasonable offer I am likely to refuse.
 And if anybody choose
 He may circulate the news
 That no reasonable offer I am likely to refuse.

Oh happy was that humourist—the first that made a pun at all—
 Who when a joke occurred to him, however poor and mean,
 Was absolutely certain that it never had been done at all—
 How popular at dinners must that humourist have been !
 Oh the days when some stepfather for the query held a handle out,
 The door-mat from the scraper, is it distant very far ?
 And when no one knew where Moses was when Aaron put the candle out,
 And no one had discovered that a door could be a-jar !
 But your modern hearers are
 In their tastes particular,
 And they sneer if you inform them that a door can be a-jar !

In search of quip and quiddity I've sat all day, alone, apart—
 And all that I could hit on as a problem was—to find Analogy between a scrag of mutton and a Bony-part,
 Which offers slight employment to the speculative mind :
 For you cannot call it very good, however great your charity—
 It's not the sort of humour that is greeted with a shout—
 And I've come to the conclusion that the mine of jolarity,
 In present Anno Domini, is worked completely out !
 Though the notion you may scout,
 I can prove beyond a doubt
 That the mine of jolarity is utterly worked out !

[Exit into Castle.]

Enter HAROLD (now dressed as Colonel) followed by BLANCA.

HAR. Now don't worry me—I can't attend to you now. I've the responsibility of a Regiment on my shoulders, and I've no time to listen to chatterboxes. If you've anything to say, mention it to the Sergeant-Major.

BLAN. The Sergeant-Major? Oh, very good—only if I tell the Sergeant-Major what I was going to tell you, the Sergeant-Major'll do something affectionate, that's all. (Going.)

HAR. Stop—Now you are not going to say anything to the Sergeant-Major that will unsettle him and make him neglect his duties?

BLAN. Only his Regimental duties. Not the others.

HAR. Oh! It would be a pity to unsettle the Sergeant-Major. Well, what was it you were going to say?

BLAN. (nestling up against him). Only this, dear—that this sudden rise—dear—from corporal to colonel at one step—dear—is more like fiction than fact, isn't it, dear?

HAR. Is that all? Cut out the "dears," and I don't think it'll hurt him. But, as you say, it is remarkable.

BLAN. What a novel it would make!

HAR. A three-volume novel! So it would. Let's write it together.

BLAN. Very well—you begin.

HAR. Now, let me see—

DUET.—HAROLD and BLANCA.

HAR. There once was a corporal bold—

BLAN. Yes—gawky, round-shouldered and lean—

HAR. No, very good-looking with plenty of dash,
In battle courageous, hot-headed and rash,
With a small but extremely becoming moustache—

BLAN. Ah! it isn't the one that I mean.

HAR. (speaks). Now it's your turn.

BLAN. There once was a Vivandière—

HAR. Old,
Short, stumpy, red-headed and vain—

BLAN. Not at all—very young with no sort of defect,
Exceedingly lovely and highly correct.

HAR. Oh, don't make her pretty—these girls, recollect,
Are always remarkably plain!

BLAN. (speaking). Rather rude, isn't it?

HAR. Not a bit. True to life—that's all. Now we must have an incident.

BLAN. Suppose we make her—(whispers.)

HAR. No—Mudie wouldn't take it. No, I don't think that would do. Stop, I have an idea for a sensational incident of a striking and dramatic character.

The Regent one morning, by chance,
Observing the Corporal, said—
"It would be nothing short of a public disgrace
To keep such a trump in a Corporal's place—
So will make him a Colonel, all covered with lace."

BLAN. (confidentially to audience.) The Regent was weak in the head!

HAR. She, taking the facts at a glance,
To his arms most unblushingly flew—

BLAN. And he was so deeply in love, I declare,
That he married her then, and he married her there—

BOTH. So it ends with a wedding at Hanover Square,
As a three volume novel should do! [Exeunt together.]

Enter MATS MUNCK, now dressed in GRIFFENFELD'S uniform.

MATS. When a man is promoted unexpectedly to a position of the highest official distinction, it is always a satisfactory circumstance when his figure is calculated to set off his uniform to advantage. (Sentry presents arms to him.) Eh? Oh, thank you very much. You're extremely polite, I'm sure!

SENT. Please to remember the sentry.

MATS. Eh? Oh, certainly! (gives him money.)

Enter DAME CORTLANDT unobserved. She comes forward.

DAME C. (putting her arm round him.) Mats! Little man!

MATS. Eh? Oh, it's you. Don't. I'm busy now. (Aside.) It was all very well when I was only a Syndic, but as a Governor I can look a good deal higher than this sort of person. (Aloud, to sentry.) Will you kindly do that again?

SENT. Certainly (presents arms.)

MATS. Most gratifying, I'm sure! (tips him again. DAME again embraces MATS.) Now don't worry—can't you see that I have business with this gentleman? (Reverts to sentry.)

DAME C. (suppressing her rage with difficulty.) Mats! Take care! This is strange treatment—at the very outset of our engagement!

MATS. But, my good soul, you speak of our engagement as if—

DAME C. Don't deny it, Mats. I have your letter of proposal in my pocket—you have my letter or acceptance in yours! I'm trying to keep it down, Mats.

MATS. But, as you very properly observed, that wasn't addressed to me but to the ex-Governor.

DAME C. It does just as well for you, Mats. I accepted the Governor, and you are the Governor.

MATS. If it comes to that you were proposed to by the Syndic, and I'm not the Syndic. Go find the Syndic—go seek, go find—there's a good girl! (Reverts to sentry). Will you oblige me once more? (giving him money).

DAME C. (heaving with suppressed rage). I'm doing my best to subdue it, Mats, but it's a tremendous effort.

MATS Hold your breath and count six, my dear.

DAME C. (does so). It's all right, dear—it's down again!

MATS. (occupied with sentry). So glad!

DAME C. We must settle this at once, Mats. It's a very nice point. Shall we refer it to arbitration?

MATS. By all means. I find this gentleman (indicating sentry) full of delicate appreciation—suppose we leave it to him?

DAME C. You will undertake to abide by the result, Mats?

MATS. With pleasure. (Aside.) I've tipped him till he doesn't know whether he stands on his head or his heels!

QUARTET.

(MATS MUNCK, DAME CORTLANDT, SENTRY, and afterwards GRIFFENFELD.)

MATS (to SENTRY). One day, the Syndic of this town

(Whose time of life is shady)

Affectionately kneeling down,

Proposed to this old lady.

Now your opinion give politely

And riddle me this and riddle me rightly—

Who claims her hand? (Aside.) here's half-a-crown!

(Tipping him.)

SENT. No doubt, the Syndic of this town.

MATS (dancing). Exactly so—the truth you speak—

(To DAME). Away—your love-sick Syndic seek—

You have no claim upon me, for Unhappily I'm the Governor!

SENT. Oh yes, he is the Governor!

MATS (delighted). There!

SENT. No doubt he is the Governor!

MATS. There!

ENSEMBLE.

DAME. Though basely you may plan and plot, With me you'll share your Governor's lot !	MATS. If I consent, may I be shot, With her to share my Gover- nor's lot !	GRIF. (aside). How capitally I plan and plot To cleverly cut the Gordian knot !
---	---	---

GRIF. (alone). It's all right ! they're both committed to it, and that little difficulty is off my hands at last ! Hallo ! what's wrong now ?

Enter NANNA and THORA, tidying their caps and much out of temper.

THORA. Papa, a joke's a joke,—but I don't think it fair to make us plot against ourselves !

NANNA. I'm sure I enjoy a bit of fun as much as anybody, but when it comes to our being coupled, if only for an afternoon, with a brace of penniless admirers, who are disposed to take every advantage of the position in which they temporarily find themselves, why, it's going a little too far—that's all !

GRIF. Why, what have they been doing ?

THORA. Why, they've been unnecessarily realistic in their attentions.

GRIF. Unpleasantly so ?

THORA. I said unnecessarily so. Goodness knows, I don't mind realism when there's any prospect of its coming to anything definite, but as neither of these young men has a penny, the sooner it's put a stop to the better !

GRIF. Haven't a penny ! What are you talking about ? Why, they're magnificent matches !—Court Physician with the rank of Baron !—Sculptor Extraordinary to the Royal Family with the title of Count ! Why, you grasping girls, what more do you want ?

NANNA. Oh, papa ! that's all nonsense ! If these persons were really what they believe themselves to be, we wouldn't mind, but as they're both penniless young men, and we are penniless young ladies, the sooner we tell them the truth, the better.

GRIF. But my good girls, consider ! Don't go and spoil it all ! Think of the fun of it when they discover how they've been cheated ! Oh, my dear girls, there's a rich and rare treat in store for us all !

(The girls who have been chuckling through this speech, burst into hearty laughter).

THORA. Upon my word, it ought to be extremely amusing !

PATTER TRIO.

GOVERNOR, NANNA, and THORA.

GRIF. When a gentleman supposes that he comfortably doses on a pleasant bed of roses (which are singularly rare)—

NANNA. And discovers that it bristles with uncomfortable thistles, in intemperate epistles his annoyance he'll declare—

THORA. When a man his temper loses his remarks he never chooses, but expressive language uses, with a tendency to swear—

GRIF. And when lovers are discarded their upbraiding will be larded with some epithets unguarded—you had better not be there !

NANNA (disappointed). We had better not be there ?

THORA (disappointed). We had better not be there ?

GRIF. (decidedly). You had better not be there !

ALL. We }
 You } had better not be there !

NANNA and THORA. When these gentlemen conceited both discover they've been cheated, all our fun will be defeated—that's a thing we couldn't bear—
So, however they may rave it, we'll unquestionably brave it ; you may take your affidavit we will certainly be there !

We }
They } will certainly be there—

We }
They } will certainly be there—

Though {you } flout it, never doubt it, { we } { I } { they } will certainly be there !

GRIF. Their despair and their distraction and their keen dissatisfaction—their exaggerated action, and the tearing of their hair—

NANNA. Their disgust and desperation when they see the situation some congenial occupation for the lawyers will prepare—

THORA. We shall find their loud abusing both instructive and amusing, and of violent accusing there'll be symptoms in the air—

GRIF. And their libellous expressions and their angry indiscretions will be tried at Quarter Sessions, when I occupy the chair !

NANNA (gleefully). When you occupy the chair—

THORA (gleefully). When you occupy the chair—

GRIF. When I occupy the chair !

ALL THREE. When { you }
 { I } occupy the chair !

GRIF. When the case is quite completed, then the prisoner defeated with severity is treated, as you're probably aware—

For it's carefully provided that the jury shall be guided by my summary one-sided—which distresses Labouchere.

ALL THREE. It is rough on Labouchere—

It is hard on Labouchere—

Oh the dickens, how it sickens tender-hearted Labouchere !

[Exit GRIFFENFELD.]

NANNA. Really, Thora, I can't help feeling rather conscience-stricken. Poor boys ! I'm really afraid we've broken their hearts !

THORA. It's a pity they're such nobodies. I sometimes think—between ourselves—

NANNA. Hush ! So do I—but here they come.

Enter ERLING SYKKE and TORTENSSEN. The girls retire up stage and listen.

TORT. Do you know, I don't care to be repulsed by a girl I'm engaged to, Count.

ERL. They certainly treated us very coldly, Baron. Mere innocent attentions—such as every girl expects from the man she's going to marry—

TORT. Remember, Count, we are no longer a couple of adventurers, we are great men, and we are entitled to expect that attentions shall be paid to us, now. (Girls indulge in suppressed chuckles.) I think a little condescension on our part, a little stand-off-ishness, an air of doing them a considerable favour, would not be misplaced.

ERL. I see what you mean, Baron. A little of this sort of thing —“ Good-day to you, my dear ; good-day to you. Pleased to see you, pleased to see you —”

TORT. “ A little further off, please. We'll tell you when we want the mixture as before.” Don't you think so, Count ?

ERL. I really think it's only what is due to us, Baron, I do indeed.

(The Girls come forward pretending to weep bitterly.)

NANNA (in affected tears). Oh, please, we've been thinking it over, and we're very sorry we were so un-kuk-kuk-kuk-kind to you just now!

ERL. (condescendingly). Thank you, thank you. Pray don't name it.

TORT. We thought you'd like a little attention—but it's not of the smallest consequence. There—go away—there's good girls.

THORA (pretending to sob). Oh, but we did like it—only—(bursts into tears.)

NANNA (sobbing). We thought it more mai-mai-maidenly to be cuc-cuc-cuc-coy! (tears.)

THORA (sobbing). We've been so cuc-cuc-cuc-carefully brought up! (tears.)

NANNA. By such a par-par-particular pa-pa-papa!

THORA. And we're so afraid of Mrs. Gug-gug-gug-Grundy! (violent burst of tears.)

(Both burst into floods of tears.)

TOGETHER.	{	ERL. Now my darling child—Nanna—dearest—don't cry like that! I can't bear it! See on my knees I swear to you that I will always—always love you as I love you now! Oh, don't cry like that—you'll break my heart—indeed you will!
		TORT. My dearest Thora—you mustn't—really you mustn't! It's dreadful to see those pretty eyes so red with weeping—Oh, I was a brute to be unkind to you,—there—don't be a little goose! I didn't mean it—upon my word I didn't!

(Both men are on their knees trying to console the two girls. The girls who have been pretending to weep hysterically through this, suddenly burst into peals of hearty laughter.)

ERL. (springing up). Tortenssen, I do believe they're laughing at us!

THORA. Oh, aren't the nobility shrewd!

NANNA. And isn't the aristocracy quick at grasping a situation!

DANCING QUARTET.

ERLING, TORTENSSEN, NANNA, and THORA.

NANNA. So this is how you'd have us sue you—
Bowling, bending—turning to you—
But you don't exact it, do you?

That's so kind (ERLING kisses her). Impertinence! (aside).

THORA. Pleading party pray you pity!
 You are wise and wondrous witty—
 Don't despise our doleful ditty!
 Thanks so much (TORTENSSEN kisses her).
 What impudence! (aside).

ERL. and TORT. Ha, ha, ha, ha! Ha! ha! ha! ha!

NANNA and THORA. Ha, ha, ha, ha! Ha! ha! ha! ha!

ALL. Topsey turvey turn the tables!
 Tit for tat and tat for tit—
 As in fusty fairy fables,
 Badly is the biter bit!
 Takes a time to tame a Tartar!
 Dad's delightful darling darter,
 Mostly makes a man a martyr—
 Here's a hero hardly hit!

ERL. As you sue for pardon sweetly,
 Though you've acted indiscreetly,
 We forgive you both completely,
 Thus I'll prove it—(tries to kiss her).
 NANNA. That you won't!

TORT. Though you've ridiculed us sadly—
 Cheated and deceived us badly,
 As we love you fondly—madly—
 We forgive you—(trying to kiss her).
 THORA. No, you don't!

ALL. Topsy turvey turn the tables, &c.

(ERLING and TORTENSSEN dance off—waving an adieu to the two girls, who remain on the stage).

THORA (sighing). Oh Nanna, they're good fellows! I wish it was all real!

NANNA. No use wishing, dear. We'd better try and forget all about them. (Looking off). Oh—look! All the people coming to get married!

THORA. Poor people! We—we must go and find our bridegrooms.

NANNA. Poor bridegrooms! It's—it's a capital joke! (About to cry).

THORA. Capital! (Looking at NANNA's face). Why, a real tear, I do believe!

NANNA (holding it on her finger). Yes, it's real this time.

THORA (examining it). Funny, isn't it?

NANNA. Very amusing.

THORA. Put it back. (NANNA does so). All right now?

NANNA (brightly). All right now!

[Exeunt in opposite directions.]

MARCH.

Enter men and girls in couples for wedding. They come two and two, down stage.

CHORUS. (To bell accompaniment).

Ring the bells and bang the brasses !
 Cut the cake and fill the glasses
 Lovers and their blushing lasses
 Will be duly coupled soon.
 When, in castle chapel plighted,
 Man and maid are once united,
 Off they'll go in mood delighted
 On a happy honeymoon !

Enter GRIFFENFELD, also NANNA with ERLING, THORA with TORTENSSEN, DAME CORTLANDT with SYNDIC, and CHRISTINA alone.

GRIF. Stop ! You can all go home. There will be no weddings to-day.

ERL. What do you mean ?

GRIF. I mean that you've all been imposed upon—deluded—cheated. The Regent is no Regent, but a common vagabond personating him. Ha ! ha ! ha ! Here comes His Royal Highness in his true colours !

Enter REGENT in his vagabond dress. CHRISTINA runs to his arms.

ERL. (to REGENT.) Now, sir, the truth. Are you a prince to be worshipped or a swindler to be whipped ?

REG. Really its a point upon which I'm not quite satisfied myself ! I'll think it over and let you know.

Enter the two OFFICERS.

1ST OFFICER (kneeling). Sir, the enemy's fleet has entered the Baltic, and your immediate presence at Copenhagen is indispensable. (Giving a dispatch to REGENT.)

GRIF. Why, what's all this ? Who are these jack-a-dandies ?

REG. (reading despatch). Merely two of my trusted officers. They bring me weighty news indeed !

GRIF. Why, you don't mean to tell me that you are the Regent after all ?

REG. The very Regent, at your service. (All kneel.)

GRIF. I've made an ass of myself !

REG. Don't say that. We are indebted to you for some invaluable hints for promotions, appointments, and marriage arrangements, all of which will take effect to-day—as indeed will the best and wisest of your suggestions—your permanent degradation to the ranks. (REGENT sees CHRISTINA weeping). Why, Christina in tears!

CHRIS. I weep, sir, because my heart is broken, and, alas, it is your Highness's doing, for your Highness gave me Nils Egilsson, and he has gone from me for ever!

REG. Nay, Christina, be not so sure of that. I have found the very love I have sought thus many a year, and if my being heir to a crown is to stand in my way, why I'll e'en be Nils Egilsson to the end!

CHRIS. (amazed). Sir!

REG. Come, Christina, what say you?

CHRIS. Sir, I am your Highness's handmaid! (They retire up stage together.)

FINALE.

ERL. and TORT. Now all that we've agreed upon, O,
And all that's passed between us;
Ere half an hour go by
We'll surely ratify.

NANNA and THORA. As life's career we speed upon, O,
So fondly we'll demean us;
Thy love shall never say
That he repents this day.

ERL. and TORT. What, never?

NANNA and THORA. Never!

ERL. and TORT. Never?

NANNA and THORA. Never!

ALL FOUR. Never repent this day!

ERL. and TORT. Resentment sink,
My own { Nanna.
 { Thora.

NANNA. and THORA. But only think
Of poor papa,
Position low
Degraded to!

(Pointing to GRIFFENFELD, who is standing sentry.)

ERL. and TORT. (to GRIFFENFELD). You little roguey poguey, you !

SYN. You little roguey poguey—

GRIF. (hurt). Sir !

HAR. You little roguey poguey—

GRIF. Sir !!

ALL. You roguey poguey, roguey poguey, roguey poguey !

GRIF. Sir !!!

ALL. We love with all sincerity, O,
 And pleasure is elating us—
 Away with all celerity, O,
 The priest is there awaiting us !
 In verity, verity, verity, verity,
 Priest is there awaiting us !

All except REGENT and CHRISTINA dance off in couples into castle, waving an adieu to GRIFFENFELD, who stands as sentry, presenting arms to them as the curtain falls.

THE END.
